Note: The jagged edges in some of the screenshots in this presentation are due to the fact that they were taken in Second Life running on a low-end machine, with a low-end graphics card (Intel GMA 900). Graphics look much better on high-end NVIDIA (and other) cards, with card driver settings like Antialiasing, Anisotropic Filtering, Transparency Antialiasing all enabled and set to an adequate values (something low-end cards cannot handle).

Note: Evaluating Health Info

Description: Evaluating Health Info

How to evaluate health information sources

There's nothing wrong with plugging terms into Yahoo or Google - as long as you learn a bit about evaluating what you find.

What makes a health info source a good one?

- * You can tell who posted or created the info (responsibility)
- * You can tell how recently the website was updated (currency)
- * You can easily find out how to contact the site owners, because there's an e-mail link on the site (usually at the bottom.)
- * If there's commercial content, it's carefully kept separate from the information, clearly marked as advertisement.

Alliance Library System Receives Grant to Provide Consumer Health Information Services in Virtual World

The Alliance Library System (ALS) is pleased to announce that the National Library of Medicine/Greater Midwest Region has awarded ALS a $40,000 grant to provide consumer health information services in the virtual world of Second Life. ALS is working on the project in partnership with the University of Illinois Library of the Health Sciences-Peoria, Central Medical Library, Unversity Medical Center Groningen (UMCG) in the Netherlands, and TAP Information Services.

Second Life (<http://www.secondlife.com>) is a booming virtual world with over 2 million residents.

"By providing reliable information to people at point-of-need we hope that consumers will make better informed decisions that will affect their health care and quality of life."

HEART DISEASE?

Coronary heart disease is caused by atherosclerosis, the narrowing of the coronary arteries due to fatty build ups of plaque. It's likely to produce chest pain, heart attack or both. →

SIGNS & SYMPTOMS OF A HEART ATTACK:

Sudden pain in the center your chest lasting more than 1 minute which can radiate to your jaw, arms, shoulder or over your back. Some people experience HEART ATTACK pain for prolonged periods.

Shortness of Breath, Feeling of impending doom, Lightheadedness and Fainting, Nausea and Vomiting.

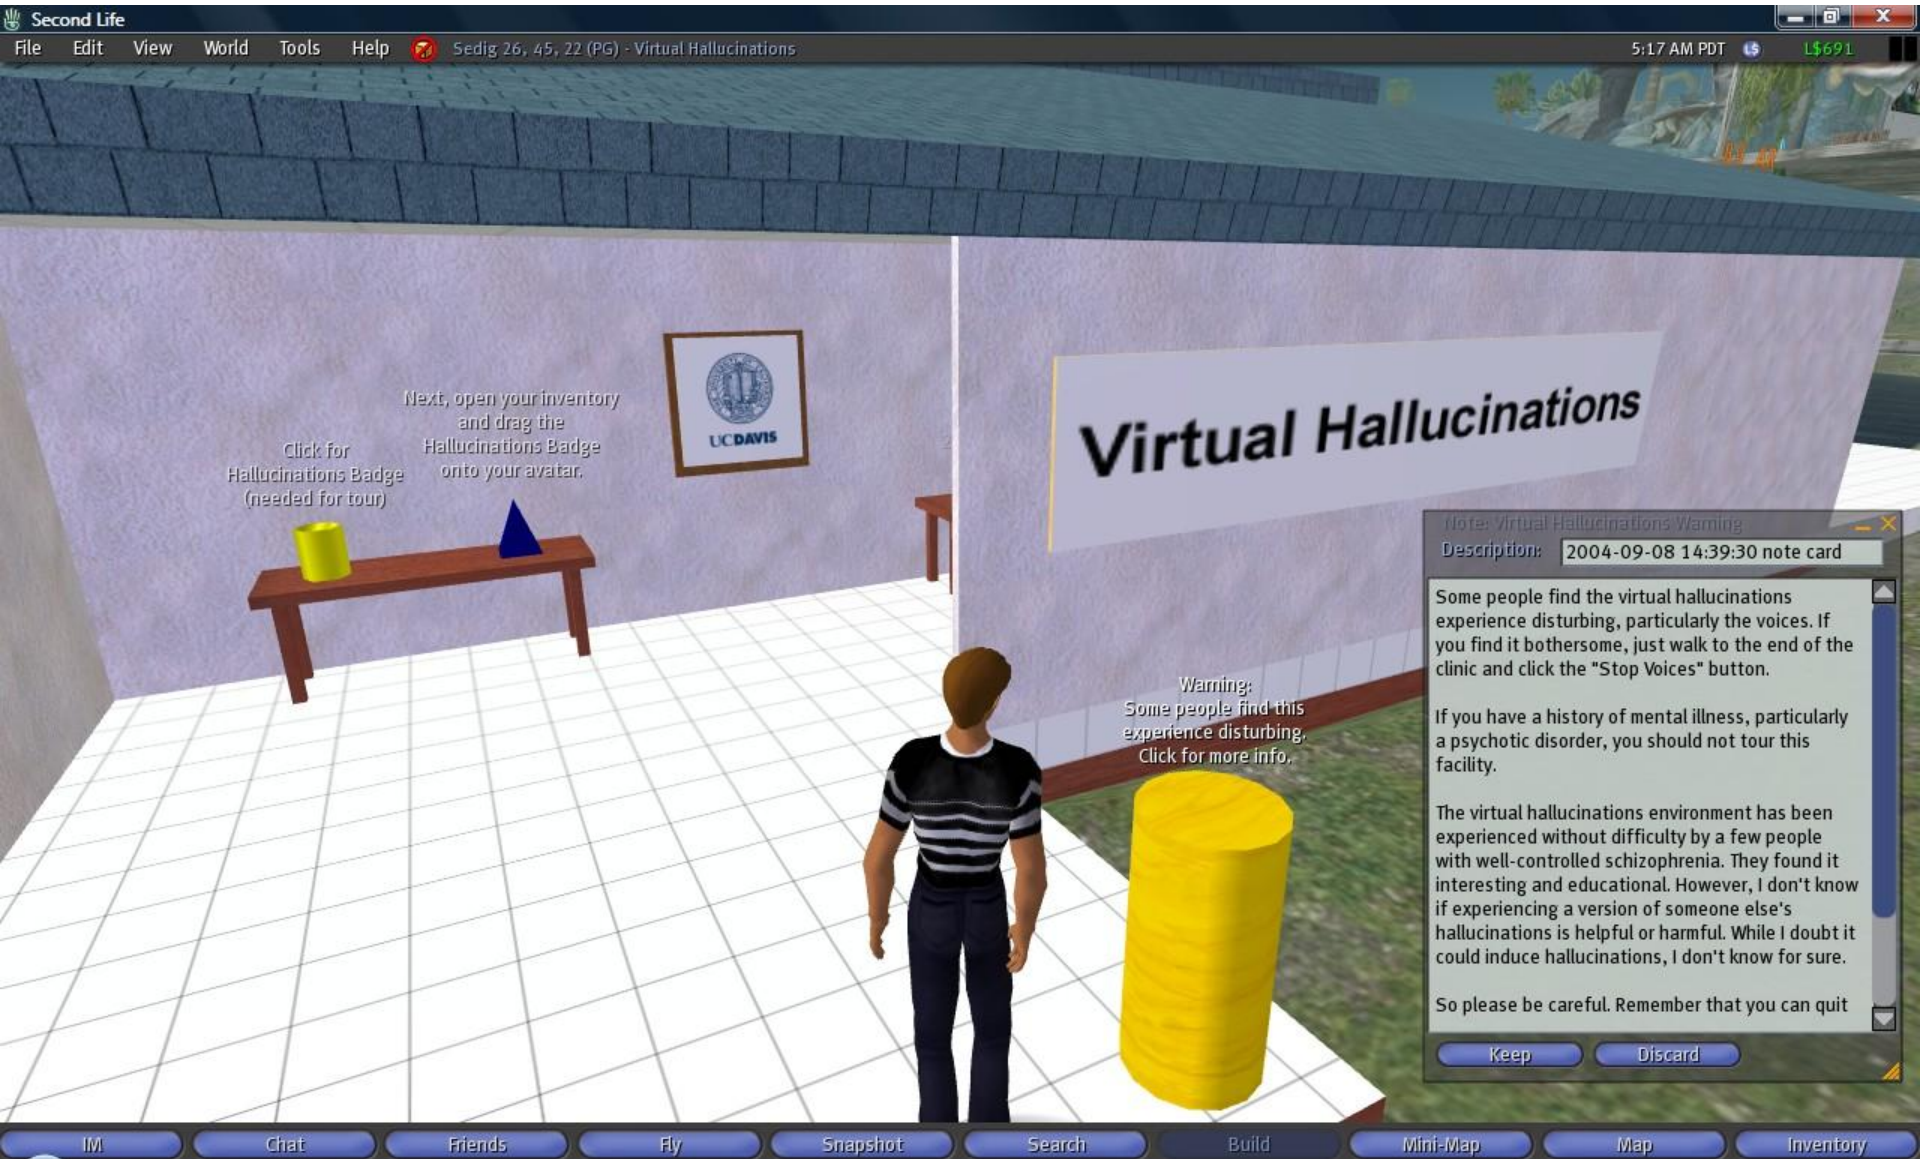

A HEART ATTACK can occur at any time. It is often brought about by physical activity or stress.

If you feel like you are having a heart attack, call 911 immediately.

Book Review: Feeling Good
By Susan Kamenev, Guest Reviewer

Feeling Good: The New Mood Therapy (1980, revised, 1999)

"Feeling Good" is a 4 million-copy bestseller written by Dr. David Burns, and is the book most frequently "prescribed" for depressed patients by psychiatrists and psychologists in the United States and Canada. Surveys indicate that American mental health professionals rate Feeling Good as the #1 book on depression. The book claims to show you how to "Overcome Depression, Conquer Anxiety, and Enjoy Greater
